Shanghai, China

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 2015
10:00 AM - 4:10 PM

JOHN A. BURNS HALL
ROOM 3012

University of Hawaii at Mānoa Campus

FREE AND OPEN TO UHM STUDENTS, FACULTY AND STAFF

Sponsored by: East-West Center (EWC); Department of Urban and Regional Planning (DURP); and the College of Social Sciences (CSS)

ABOUT THE SYMPOSIUM:

Symposium participants will share their research and/or report on the current state of urbanization and urban planning responses in Asia and the Pacific region. Scholars from the College of Architecture & Urban Planning (CAUP), Tongji University; San Francisco State University (SFSU); DURP; and other departments at UHM will present their work. A highlight of this symposium will be the presentation of research projects on urbanization and contemporary urban planning in China by visiting scholars from Tongji University, China: Min Zhao, Peng Zhenwei, Li Zhang, and Richard LeGates. Professors John Friedmann and Reginald Kwok, experts on urban planning and development policies in China, will also comment on the China research and other presentations. Presenters from UHM will talk about a range of urbanization related challenges and planning efforts – such as disaster management, transportation, use of technology, basic services, and housing – from other places in Asia and elsewhere.
