

Inaugural U.S.-Japan Leaders in Residence Program

THE TRANSFORMATION OF NATIONAL SECURITY IN ASIA

*In conversation with Shannon Dorsey
State Department Diplomatic Fellow at the East-West Center*

Speaker:

Glen S. Fukushima

Mr. Fukushima is a Senior Fellow at the Center for American Progress in Washington D.C. and Vice Chair of the Securities Investor Protection Corporation, Former President of the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan, and Former Deputy Assistant United States Trade Representative for Japan and China with a long and distinguished career in U.S. and Japan business and economic relations, Asian-Americans in politics, a supporter of higher education and the arts, and more.

March 25, 2025 (Tues)12:00-1:30PM (Followed by reception)Loulu Conference Room*(Bachman Hall 107) &*Online

(check CJS website for details)

National security in the Indo-Pacific has changed significantly over the last decade, with the rise of China being the central focus of the United States, which has enhanced security ties with the Quad (Japan, Australia, India), South Korea, the Philippines, and others, including Europe. In addition to military assets, economic competitiveness has emerged as a critical component of national security. Where is the U.S.-China rivalry headed, and what is Japan's role?